websters wear it pink websters, the Cambridge-based tax, legal, accounting and financial planning business supported the Breast Cancer Campaign - Wear It Pink Day - on October 31, for the third year running.

Staff turned the preconceived image of an “accountants” on its head by all wearing pink for the day. Outfits ranged from pretty baby pink trousers to red hot cerise shirts - and this was just the men! Monies for the charity were raised by the sale of a selection of pink cupcakes, which were reported to be delicious and vanished rather quickly. Also a swear box kept staff in check all day, even though several staff were reported to be rather broke by the end of the afternoon! Chief Executive, Andrew Webster agreed that the business would match the funds raised by staff, and websters has sent a total of £102.00 to the Breast Cancer Campaign.

Breast cancer affects so many people, that nearly everyone has been touched by it, either directly, or by knowing someone that has been affected. Practice manager at websters, Cherryl Simpson commented, ‘We all strongly feel this is a charity we at websters want to support. It is important to us as a member of our staff was diagnosed almost five years ago with breast cancer. We are all aware of the impact of that breast cancer and its treatment had on her, her friends, her family and at our workplace. However, due to the amazing work of charities such as this, the best treatments are now available to all women”.

Despite the seriousness of the campaign, good fun was had by all and planning for next year’s event is already underway.
